

BRUTAL JOKES PERPETRATED BY KAISER ON HIS OWN OFFICERS

(Correspondence Associated Press) LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Imperial manners of former Kaiser Wilhelm, an example of his royal jokes and the stolid servility with which his officers endured them in pre-war times was disclosed recently in an article by Johannes Fischart in the German publication Weltbühne.

In July, 1901, relates Fischart, the emperor was on board the cruiser Nymphe to watch the yacht races of the Kiel regatta. In one of the intervals he went into the captain's deck cabin to sign some state papers.

Interrupting his work of appending his signature to documents placed before him one after the other by Admiral von Tirpitz, the Kaiser remarked to another admiral standing near Tirpitz is a bore with his documents. I should prefer a glass of champagne.

"A your service, majesty," replied the other admiral, who rushed headlong to bring a glass of champagne, which he handed to his monarch with a low bow.

Wilhelm drank half the glass, then went out on to the bridge, beneath which were General von Hanneke and the officers of his brilliant suite. "Hanneke," shouted the emperor, "you would like some champagne, too," and as the general turned his face upwards to reply, Wilhelm poured the remainder of his own glass over General Hanneke's head. "Majesty is too gracious," was General Hanneke's mainly retort to this insult, while the remaining officers of the Imperial suite roared with laughter at the imperial joke.

Wilhelm returned in boisterous good humor to the deck cabin and demanded something to eat. The attentive admiral rushed to fetch some caviar sandwiches. Taking one of these sandwiches, Wilhelm removed the butter and the caviar with his forefinger, which he then licked clean, and emerging once more upon the bridge shouted, "Hanneke, you would like some caviar sandwiches I am sure." As General Hanneke looked up to murmur his thanks, Wilhelm threw the remnant of bread in his face. Again General Hanneke, with a courtly bow replied, "Majesty is too gracious."

This was a typical scene, says Herr Fischart.

CAMEL WOULD BE VERY SICK AT THAT

SACRAMENTO, March 12.—A fight to delay action on proposed amendments to Senator Harris' prohibition enforcement bill was won today in the senate by members opposing passage of the prohibition resolution. Consideration of the amendments went over until Thursday.

The amendment, which Senator Harris explained was to insure manufacture of beverages containing as much as one-half of 1 per cent alcohol, was opposed by McDonald.

"I would like to know how much alcohol is intoxicating. Who told you, Gander?" McDonald inquired of Harris.

"This amendment was approved by persons expert in handling alcoholic beverages," Harris answered. "I am told that a camel could drink forty gallons of this beverage and not get intoxicated."

"No. But he would be a mighty sick camel," Slater interjected.

"I want to get information from authorities other than Dr. Gander on the question of how much alcohol is intoxicating," McDonald said. "I want to try to amend this bill so it will provide for a proper alcoholic content."

THREE RING CIRCUS IS HELD IN THE AIR

(By Associated Press) MARCH FIELD, Riverside, Cal., March 12.—A three-ring aerial circus will be held here on April 3. Two hundred planes with more than enough aviators to man them are available, and practically all of them will be utilized in the great show.

March Field, which is one of the larger remaining schools for aviators in the country, has quietly stood back and permitted the officers and cadets at Rockwell Field, near San Diego, and the Avadia balloon school near Los Angeles, to put on their shows. Now, having seen all that the others have to offer, the March Field contingent intends to present all the features of the preceding programs with some new and startling additions.

Spirals, side slips, nose dives, parachute jumps, mass formations, and all the variations of fancy flying will be demonstrated, while all available types of airplanes, from the lumbering grasshoppers used for instruction to the graceful little scouts of the swiftest style, will be used.

As an added feature, Lieutenant Colonel William Thaw and Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker will attend. It is announced. Both will fly.

The Chicago Cubs, who will be west in training, will also meet a team organized from the March Field aviators.

TEN YEAR OLD BOY VETERAN OF THE WAR

(Correspondence Associated Press) PARIS, Feb. 17.—A youngster of 10 created a sensation in the reading room of the Knights of Columbus club in Paris recently by appearing before the assembled Yankee soldiers garbed in the uniform of an American marine, with two wound stripes and three service stripes on his sleeves.

More than a year ago some of the marines were stationed in a little French village when a little Belgian boy came to their camp. He was received with open arms, and when he told them the story of how his mother and father had passed away, they adopted him as the mascot of the regiment, and Jean Moyeaux has been with the marines every moment since that day when the little refugee, hungry and lonesome reached the camp.

During two engagements the little Belgian boy was wounded, and one of his little legs is crippled. He walks with a limp, but he always hopes that he will sometime be able to walk as straight as his friend, the corporal. The corporal adopted the youngster, and soon he was loved by every member of the 13th regiment. He is a clever youngster and in the past year has learned much of the ways of the American.

A Knights of Columbus secretary gave the little soldier some candy, and plied the refugee with questions. "Me no Francis, me Belge," said the youngster. "Me like Americaine. Spouse corporal say, me go to American with la regiment. Me no talk beaucoup Anglais. Me understand beaucoup." From head to foot the young Belgian was garbed in the uniform of the marines. On his arm he carried a little rain coat, and he proudly displayed the numerals which showed that he was a member of the gallant 13th.

One of the young men at the Knights of Columbus club asked him why he did not have sergeant's stripes. "Corporal he make one uniform now for promenade. When me promenade me wear sergeant's suit. Then me boss corporal. My fadder and mudder mort now. Corporal he fadder to me. Will go to American with marines."

There were tears in the eyes of many of the soldier boys who were gathered at the Knights of Columbus club. They had been through much, but this little figure with the two wound stripes and the warped limb gave them another incident of the horrors of the German attacks in France and Belgium.

Little Jean Moyeaux will go to the United States with his corporal and the marines. The captain loves the little youngster. And every man in the regiment would fight for the Belgian boy who has learned to love, and who has learned to know the American soldier as he really is.

VALUE OF SCIENCE OF VOLCANOLOGY

(By Associated Press) HONOLULU, T. H., Feb. 17.—(By Mail)—The work of volcanology investigation conducted at the active volcano of Kilauea, on the island of Hawaii, for several years past by the Hawaii Volcano Research association, has been taken over by the United States government, according to word received here from Washington, and hereafter will be directed by the weather bureau of the department of agriculture. Professor Jaggar, Jr., will continue in charge of the work at Kilauea.

The Hawaii Volcano Research association has retained title to its property at the volcano but has granted free use of all its equipment to the weather bureau.

Professor Jaggar has so thoroughly learned the many varying moods of Kilauea that for months ahead he accurately predicts the movements of the great pillar of lava in the central fire pit of the volcano.
